

Canada Post's actions could further damage Canada's News Industry.

“Canada Post is undercutting local newspapers by using its exclusive access to lock boxes, apartment buildings and condos”

“We believe this is a good time to reinforce the fact that local advertising supports local news creation and that flyers are a key component of the business”

“At a time when our industry is knee-deep in transition, this deliberate undercutting of one of newspapers’ foundational revenue pillars by a federal Crown Corporation is very troubling and could potentially put a lot of journalists out of work”

“Canada Post isn’t creating jobs and news in communities”
